WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats moved aggressively Tuesday to prevent the government from shutting down on Friday, with Senate leaders seeking to turn the president's focus to other pressing issues and promising to keep the government running with a measure to fund popular government programs through the weekend. Senate Democrats, relying on the tactic they used in 2013 and 2015 to prevent government shutdowns, needed 60 votes to pass the short-term measure. A vote was delayed at 1 a.m. Tuesday after defections by three Republicans. ADVERTISEMENT Democrats said they viewed their 6d1f23a050
